

The Stitch

December 2025

Hello friends,

The holiday season has officially arrived, and my sewing room is buzzing with all things cozy and festive! Snow is flying, Christmas lights are twinkling, and the smell of cookies and cocoa seems to follow me everywhere. Finn's dollhouse has caught the holiday spirit too – he's hung the lights, put up the wreaths and stockings, and even set up a little Christmas tree with a few gifts tucked underneath!

Thank you for supporting my small, handmade business – your orders, messages, and kind words truly make my season bright!

Wishing you all the cozy vibes, twinkling lights, and joy this holiday season brings!

Warmly,
Britney

T-BURG TAKES ON
pediatric cancer

Community Highlight - A Special Quilt Donation

This month, I'm pouring extra love and creativity into a very colorful quilt that I will be donating to T-Burg Takes On Pediatric Cancer. This quilt is designed to be warm, comforting, and full of vibrant color – made with the hope that it brings a sense of coziness and joy to whoever holds it. The finished quilt will be auctioned off at their 15th Annual Gala, with all proceeds supporting families in our community who are facing pediatric cancer. I'm truly honored to contribute a handmade piece to such an important cause.

Their mission is dedicated to helping families in the Finger Lakes region facing childhood cancer by providing financial support during incredibly challenging times. (T-Burg Takes on Pediatric Cancer)
